Latest consumer price index discloses

Inflation continues moderation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer prices increased fourtenths of a per cent in May, the government reported today, continuing a moderating trend in the nation's inflation.

April's increase had been sixtenths of a per cent. For the year ending in May, the overall increase was 9.5 per cent, the first time in more than a year that the 12-month rate was under 10 per cent.

The Labor Department said its Consumer Price Index stood at 159.3 based on the 1967 average of 100, meaning that consumers were paying $159.30 for the same goods that cost $100 eight years ago.

The Labor Department said there were higher prices during May for gasoline, used cars and meat. The price of beef rose 7.6 per cent, more than half the 11 per cent price decrease of the previous six months.

The government also had encouraging news about pay, reporting that real spendable earnings of workers rose by 4.4 per cent in May, largely because of the government tax cuts which took effect on May 1.

The improvement in the inflation rate in May was evident throughout the Labor Department's price report.

The prices of nonfood commodities, such as furniture, appliances and new cars, increased only two tenths of one per cent, the smallest rise in this category since September of 1973.

The over-all increase in food prices was five-tenths of one per cent, up from four-tenths of one per cent in April. Except for meat, however, most other prices were down, including cereal and bakery products, dairy products, processed foods and vegetables and fats and oil products.

Prices for eggs and sugar fell sharply.

In addition to the beef increase, pork prices rose 3.3 per cent and poultry prices were up six-tenths of one per cent, the government said.

Prices of services increased two-tenths of one per cent, the smallest rise since July of 1973. Services include rent, medical care, and utility charges.

Meanwhile, Sidney L. Jones, a top Treasury Department economist, said Thursday he is more concerned about the nation's ability to raise funds for new investment in the years ahead than he is about inflation or unemployment.

"I consider it to be the major problem of the 1970s," Jones told a news conference.

Jones repeated earlier estimates that the nation would need to invest between $4 trillion and $4.5 trillion in new plants, equipment and housing by 1985. Energy investment alone may require between $750 billion and $1 trillion, he said.

But he said that in order to make such investments, the nation's businesses would need to increase their profit rate, which he said has been declining since about 1965 after adjustment for inflation.

Frederic W. Hickman, assistant treasury secretary for tax policy, said business could be helped by some tax changes that are under consideration by the Ford administration, including changes in the double taxation of dividends.

But Hickman said eliminating the double tax could result in a tax loss to the government of between $13 billion and $15 billion if done all at once. He said that if a change is recommended, it probably would be for a gradual shift.

The double taxation occurs because corporate profits are taxed before dividends are paid and the dividends are again taxed at the stockholder level.

In other economic developments:

—The Commerce Department said after-tax profits of corporations declined $17.2 billion in the first three months of the year to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $62.3 billion.

—The House Ways and Means Committee voted to approve a $46 billion increase in the federal debt ceiling, up to $577 billion.

Witherspoon to be replaced by Ed Warning

County's first (and only) veterans service officer to retire June 30

By SANDY FOSSON

Bernard Witherspoon is the first and only veterans service officer Fayette County has ever had and on June 30 when he retires from that office with over 29 years of service, he will have been the longest serving officer in the state.

The 65-year-old Witherspoon began working as the Fayette County veterans service officer on Feb. 1, 1946 just after being discharged in late 1945 from the U.S. Army following World War II.

He was appointed to the position by the five-member Fayette County Soldiers Relief Commission, which was established by the Ohio Soldiers Relief Commission and selected by the Fayette County Common Pleas Court judge.

His duties were to provide information and assistance to veterans or their dependents in obtaining their benefits as they were entitled to under state and federal law.

Witherspoon, 817 Briar Ave., said he had not intended to remain on the job so many years but "I liked the work and the people and the job gradually grew on me," he said.

"It is really a challenging job," he added. "Almost every person who walks in the door wants something different. You have to mentally shift gears with each person to assist them with either benefits, insurance, hospital expenses, loans or just information."

Witherspoon stated that during the war years over $1 million a year in insurance was handled through the office in Fayette County alone. The office now services claims amounting to approximately $1.5 million a year to Fayette County veterans and their dependents.

"Fayette County has over 3,600 living veterans now," Witherspoon said but he could not estimate how many widows and orphans were also serviced through the office. "Some take their claims through the Fayette County veterans organization but others go to the Veterans Administration in Columbus," he said.

Approximately 25 cases are now pending with the Veterans Administration in the Fayette County Service Office," Witherspoon added.

The reasons for his retiring were numerous, he said, but primarily because "it seemed like a good time." He said that while Ed Warning will have a tremendous amount to learn about the office as his replacement, "maybe some new blood will also help the service."

Warning is a former 12-year auto salesman for Carroll Halliday, Inc. in Washington C.H. and Rod Bell Ford in Circleville.

A member of Veterans of Foreign Wars, a past commander of the American Legion and a member of the Masonic Lodge, the 41-year-old Warning is a veteran of the U.S. Air Force, having served four years in the Korean War. He was discharged from the U.S. Air Force Reserves at the former Clinton County Air Force Base, near Wilmington, in 1962.

Warning and his wife, Mary Ann, reside at 708 S. North St. They have four children and attend the South Side Church of Christ.

Witherspoon, also a member of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Masonic Lodge and the Scottish Rite in Columbus, will be retiring with full retirement benefits to spend more time with his hobbies — fishing, boating and amateur radio work.

He said there were no definite plans, "just doing what I want to do at the moment." Some traveling and spending more time at his cottage at Rocky Fork Lake were the first thoughts to come in his mind upon retiring.

He and his wife, Gretchen, who retired in 1973 as the supervisor of nursing at the Fayette County Health Department, are both avid fishermen and have already submitted their reservations for the Coho salmon fishing meeting this September in Michigan.

"Someday, I'll bring back a bigger fish than my wife," he promised.

director before. Four of the five Democrats supporting him have been mavericks in Majority Leader Oliver Ocasek's 21-member majority caucus since the session started in January.

Sen. Donald L. Woodland, D-16 Columbus, who said he found "no real reason" to oppose the 57-year-old Columbus attorney's nomination, cast the deciding swing vote.

Other Democrats were Sen. Anthony O. Calabrese, D-22 Cleveland, ousted last winter by Ocasek as Democratic leader, and Sens. Robert T. Secrest, D-20 Cambridge; Thomas E. Carney, D-32 Girard, and Douglas Applegate, D-30 Steubenville.

Ocasek, D-27 Akron, said he opposed Peltier because of the early 1971 real estate license revelations. They also involved Rhodes who obtained a license on the basis of an oral examination. The Senate leader said, however, that he did not prevail upon his caucus to vote as he did. He said he did not regard the vote as a reflection on his leadership "although some people may think it does."

Peltier, who served 7½ years as commerce director when Rhodes was governor from 1963-1971, was among 14 Rhodes appointees receiving the Senate's approval. They were the first to be acted upon since the governor reoccupied the executive office Jan. 13.

The House approved eight bills before adjourning until next Tuesday. Senators approved two minors measures and received a new one to allow Jai Lai games in Ohio.

The House, with some lawmakers calling the federal requirement "blackmail," rejected the emergency clause when the bill passed that chamber originally May 6.

In other action, before the lawmakers adjourned for the weekend, five Democrats split and joined the Senate's 12 Republicans to confirm the Republican governor's appointment of J. Gordon Peltier as state commerce director. The vote was 17-16.

Peltier, a controversial figure, admitted in committee hearings that he obtained a real estate broker's license by taking his own test when he was Bressler made his statement in opening remarks during the fourth day of the trial. The prosecution has already presented its witnesses.

He said Ruppert was mentally insane for almost 10 years. He said the unemployed draftsman was afflicted with a "psychosis which he could not control but which still enabled him to interact with other people."

Bressler said Ruppert's mental illness stemmed from his youth when he lived in a one-room makeshift house in a chicken coop in a rural area of southwestern Ohio.

Bressler said that since his arrest Ruppert has been examined by nine private psychiatrists, two court-appointed psychiatrists and four psychologists who concluded that Ruppert was mentally and legally insane.

CHESTER WHITE WEEK — The Fayette County Board of Commissioners has proclaimed July 6-12 as "Chester White Week" in recognition of the National Chester White Summer Spotlight being held here July 7-9. On hand for the occasion were front row, left to right, commissioner Robert Mace, commission chairman Ray Warner and Chris Rodabaugh, field representative for the Chester White Association. Standing in rear are commissioner J. Herbert Perrill, John Bruber, Fayette County agricultural extension agent and conference director for the spotlight and Ron Warner and Dave Gerber, who will also assist with the Washington C.H. show.

Chester White spotlight scheduled here July 7-9

The National Chester White Summer Spotlight will be held July 7-9 in Fayette County, the fourth leading hog county in Ohio, featuring champion hogs from 18 different states.

Breeders from around the country will converge on the Fayette County Fairgrounds in Washington C.H. for the annual show and sale, which will include a tested boar class plus over 300 December, January and February boars and open gilts from the nation's leading Chester White herds.

Lyle R. Alumbaugh, executive secretary of the Chester White Swine Record Association, said he expected the entrants to increase before the July 6 opening for the three-day event.

"It's really shaping up to be a place where breeders will be able to select seedstock that will improve their herd and the Chester breed, as well as a place to exchange ideas on what constitutes a strong breeding program," Alumbaugh said of the final plans for the Washington C.H. show.

"Many people look at a spotlight as a place to merchandise their product and have a good time," Alumbaugh said, "but the main purpose is education and the exchange of ideas. As a seedstock producer, the top priority is to produce a Chester that will breed on," he added.

Conference director for the show from Washington C.H. will be John Gruber, Fayette County agricultural extension agent. He will be assisted by several Chester White officials and Washington C.H. residents, Dave Gerber, Alan Wilt, Bob Taylor, Ron Warner, Paul Shephard, Art Bumpus, Charles Andrews, William Diley and Jack Sommers.

Also in attendance will be Mary Lou Hunker, Ohio Chester White Queen, and Cathy Phillips, Ohio Pork Queen.

All breeding animals in the show must have individual health certificates and must meet brucellosis and leptospirosis requirements, spelled out in detail to exhibitors.

A schedule of the events includes: Sunday, July 6—reception of entries, registration and weighing. Monday, July 7—8 a.m. on-foot market hog show; 10 a.m., load market hogs for packing plant; 12 noon, judging contest. Tuesday, July 8—8 a.m., judging breeding animals; 2:30 p.m., selection of national champions; 7 p.m., Spotlight Awards Banquet at the Mahan Building with the Rev. Father Richard J. Connelly, pastor of St. Colman's Catholic Church, as guest speaker. Wednesday, July 9—10 a.m., sale of prize winning boars and open gilts.

The spotlight will also feature a women's fashion show at 10 a.m. July 7 in the Days Inn Motel at the intersection of U.S. 35 and I-71 and an "Ohio Night" outdoor barbeque at 6:30 p.m. July 7.

Newlywed captures top lottery prize

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Twenty-one-year-old Charles Hudson of Hamilton, who says he makes furniture for a hobby, won enough cash in the Ohio lottery to buy a house to put the furniture in.

Hudson, a supervisor for the Bohlke Veneer Corp., won the $300,000 top prize in the Buckeye 300 competition Thursday night.

Hudson and his bride of three months, Anna, will receive $15,000 a year for 20 years from the Ohio Lottery Commission.

Truck driver Robert E. Johnson, 38, of Unity, won the $60,000 second prize. Johnson said he found a $20 winner among the six tickets he bought last week—along with the ticket guaranteeing him a minimum $15,000 prize in the Buckeye 300 drawing.

With eight contestants in the drawing the lottery also offered a $30,000 third prize, which was won by 61-year-old Raymond Sears of Xenia, a retired plumber.

The other contestants won minimum $15,000 prizes. They included Shirley Jordan, Loveland; John J. Kovach, Fairport Harbor; Ellison E. Mason, Cleveland; Annette Piatko, Massillon, and Reba Cox, Elyria.

The lottery commission said regular weekly numbers drawn were 074 for the single set and 599 466 for the double set.

Lucky Buck numbers drawn were 641 206417.

The lottery commission said it is extending the Lucky Buck game to Sept. 25. Robert S. Malaga, lottery director, said the 10-week extension was planned because the auxiliary lottery has boosted ticket sales.

Bear may scare

'Tecumseh' horses

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP) — Something has been frightening the horses used in the outdoor drama, "Tecumseh!," and the director says it may be a bear.

The horses have twice been scared in the early morning hours. One mare was injured by cuts.

W. L. Mundell, producer of the drama, said bears have been spotted by residents of the Sugarloaf Mountain area where the drama unfolds. He said sightings were unusual, but not unheard of, in the area.

Mendell, meanwhile, is posting observers at night in hopes of spotting whatever is scaring the horses.

Employees won't face any criminal prosecution, CIA director claims

By MICHAEL J. SNIFFEN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Director William E. Colby of the Central Intelligence Agency says he thinks no CIA employees will be prosecuted, much less convicted of crimes, for the agency's illegal domestic activities.

In his first interview since the Rockefeller Commission last week described some "plainly unlawful" domestic CIA operations, Colby said Thursday. "Based on what I know, I do not believe any of our employees would be subject to criminal prosecution and conviction, even though technically they may have done something which was legally improper at the time."

Justice Department officials say that Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi is still studying the evidence gathered by the Rockefeller panel on both domestic activity and from its secret probe of allegations the CIA was involved in assassination plots. President Ford has asked Levi to determine whether prosecutions should be undertaken.

The Rockefeller Commission found a series of illegal CIA operations against U.S. citizens including surveillance, the opening of mail, monitoring of telephone calls and the testing of powerful drugs on some Americans without their prior knowledge.

While the normal five-year statute of limitations on most federal crimes may prevent some prosecutions, Colby did not mention this.

Instead, he said, CIA employees would not be prosecuted for crimes "if they were doing it in the belief that it was in the course of their duties, a reasonable exercise of their functions here, under a belief that it was even lawful because of the gray areas in the law that the commission referred to."

Colby also said he could envision no future domestic political situation like that in the mid-1960s that would again lead CIA employees to feel justified in undertaking illegal domestic spying. Among the items which he felt should reassure the public that these misdeeds will not recur, Colby referred to the likelihood of increased supervision of the CIA by Congress and the executive branch, clear prohibitions in directives he has issued and the attitude of CIA employees themselves.

Colby predicted that if he told an employee to violate one of these directives, "he wouldn't accept it; he'd refuse it and he'd go public on you or he'd go to a congressman on you."

"America wants us to conduct ourselves within strict limits," Colby added. "Our employees ... spend their lives trying to analyze other climates of opinion around the world and they're equally sensitive to America."

During the interview in his seventh-floor office at CIA headquarters in suburban Langley, Va., the 55-year-old CIA director covered many of the issues raised in investigations of his agency by the news media, the Rockefeller Commission and several congressional committees. These were among his major points:

—He disclosed that during his CIA career, which began in 1951, foreigners had suggested assassinations to him and U.S. government employees had discussed the possibility of assassinations with him. He said he rejected the ideas every time.

—He refused to name anyone involved in these discussions, the suggested targets or the dates or locations of the conversations. Colby has served in Stockholm, Rome and Saigon as well as here.

—He refused to discuss previously published allegations of CIA involvement in assassination plots or attempts against such foreign leaders as Cuban Premier Fidel Castro and the late Dominican Republic dictator Rafael Trujillo. Nor would he discuss any possible involvement of President John F. Kennedy or his brother Robert in alleged assassination schemes.

—He said he hoped that House and Senate investigating committees also would keep secret the facts behind such assassination reports. "I think there is positive harm to the reputation of the country to go into great detail on these things."

—Current policy is clearly opposed to the use of assassinations or even the development of such plans. He personally opposes assassinations "because I think they're wrong and because I think they frequently bring about absolutely uncontrolled and unforeseeable results."

—If the CIA learned of an independent assassination scheme aimed at a foreign leader, he could not say for certain that he would alert the target. He would have to consider whether a valuable CIA source would be unmasked in so doing and the effectiveness of the foreign leader's own security measures.

—He cannot be certain that all the agency's illegal or improper activities have been discovered, but argues that no federal agency could give such an assurance about its operations.

—He intends to implement the Rockefeller Commission's recommendation that the CIA inspector general's office, an internal watchdog, be enlarged, but hopes the agency won't impair its intelligence-gathering "by reviewing our activities more than we operate them."

—He has not been asked to resign and intends to stay at his post as long as the President and he agree that he is useful.

—He asserts that America has the best intelligence service in the world and offers, as partial proof of its capabilities, copies of several recent American newspaper stories reporting U.S.-gathered intelligence about Soviet military developments. He believes a major part of his job is to educate the American people about U.S. intelligence and convince them of its superiority.

Rail clerks halt strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The railway clerks union agreed early today to postpone its threatened nationwide strike until July 21, after all-night negotiations failed to settle a contract dispute.

The union earlier had threatened to walk out at 12:01 a.m. EDT Monday. W.J. Usery Jr., the Ford administration's top labor troubleshooter, who announced the postponement at dawn, said the union acted after he requested a 30-day delay.

No further talks were scheduled following the all-night session among Usery, the union leaders and representatives of the rail industry.

Before the talks ended, movement reportedly was made in the positions of the Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks (BRAC) and the railroad industry. During the session at a downtown hotel, Usery and George Ives, chairman of the National Mediation Board, shuttled between the meeting rooms of both sides and held occasional hallway conferences with BRAC President C.L. Dennis and William H. Dempsey, head of the National Railway Labor Conference, which represents management.

Dennis' bargaining team scaled down demands covering such areas as wages, cost-of-living adjustments, job security, and exemption of certain employees from union membership. Dennis said later he had told the industry bargainers that if they did not accept the revised package, which he called the "bottom line," the union would revert to its previous positions.

Stock list shows gain

NEW YORK (AP) — Signs of abating inflation helped set off another strong advance in active trading in the stock market today.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 8.61 at 853.96 after a 17.52 jump Thursday, and gainers outpaced losers by nearly a 4-1 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

At the opening bell, the government reported that the rise of consumer prices slowed to a 4.8 per cent annual rate in May from 7.2 in April, with non-food items posting their smallest increase in 20 months.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .45 at 91.08.

In the early stages of the session, the Dow showed a gain of better than 12 points and was verging on its 1974 closing high of 858.73, reached on May 12. After that, the blue-chip issues which make up the average ran into some resistance from profit taking.

The NYSE's composite index gained .42 to 49.47.

AMA sets up reinsurance company over malpractice

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — The American Medical Association is going into the insurance business.

In response to the malpractice insurance crisis, delegates to the AMA's 124th annual convention voted Thursday to set up an insurance company.

The company would be a national reinsurance corporation, designed to support primary insurance companies set up by state medical societies as a result of rising premiums or unavailability of malpractice insurance.

A special AMA study committee said earlier that it hoped such a mechanism "will not become necessary."

However, the delegates voted nearly unanimously at the final session of the convention that "the AMA reinsurance company be formed and operational as soon as possible."

The action was taken despite an internal financial crisis. It will cost $20,000 to set up and incorporate the company, which will require $1.5 million in reserves and a minimum of five participating states at the beginning.

Dr. Malcolm C. Todd of Long Beach, Calif., outgoing AMA president, had cited the reinsurance company concept last Sunday as a possible key solution to the malpractice problem.

In response to its own financial situation, the AMA raised members' dues from $110 to $250 effective next January. A special $60 assessment levied last November has produced $7.5 million thus far.

The AMA lost $3.5 million in 1974 and faces a $2.6 million deficit this year. The organization expects to have a cash reserve of $2.8 million at the end of the year.

The financial problems are complicated by a dispute with the Internal Revenue Service, which has ruled that revenue from advertising in AMA journals is subject to taxation. The association is fighting the ruling, contending that the revenue is tax exempt.

Sources say that the amount in question is $21 million. At the end of 1974, the AMA's total capital assets were $14.2 million.

In final business at the convention, Dr. Richard E. Palmer of Alexandria, Va., was elected president-elect of the association.

Demonstrators attempted to escape, student says

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Neither a rush of demonstrators nor the crescendo of crowd noise sparked the volley from Ohio National Guard rifles that felled 13 students at Kent State University five years ago, one of the wounded testified Thursday.

James Russell of St. Petersburg, Fla., said he and the students he saw were trying to get out of the troops' way as they climbed the campus hill where the shooting broke out.

"Most of the chanting had stopped," the 28-year-old former art student added of the antiwar slogans the protesters had been yelling.

Lawyers for guardsmen being sued in connection with the incident said in opening statements they would prove that the shooting followed a surge of demonstrators toward the troops accompanied while the noise reached a peak.

Russell was the second of three wounded students to take the witness chair Thursday in the suit being brought by the wounded and parents of the students killed May 4, 1970.

Gov. James A. Rhodes, three former state officials and 39 current and former guardsmen face claims for $46 million in a consolidation of 13 suits.

"I saw people moving toward Taylor

Hall," Russell said. "I did not see people rushing the National Guard."

Defense attorney Charles Brown said a film of the shooting showed the surge of demonstrators, but Russell said that would not change his mind.

One of the victims' attorneys, Fred Mandel, then asked what Russell's reaction would be if the film showed five students within 85 feet of the guard and none rushing the troops. But Russell's reply was stopped by an objection that was sustained.

Russell said he was 160 feet from the troops when he was shot twice, once in the forehead and once in the right thigh.

The first witness of the day was Thomas Grace of Syracuse who also said he saw some students "advancing parallel to the guard" toward Taylor Hall and the slope known as Blanket Hill.

Grace denied under cross examination telling the doctor who operated on his wound that students had been rushing the guard when they were shot. Later, defense attorney Burt Fulton produced a series of photos which showed Grace had moved toward Blanket Hill at about the time the guard left a practice football field to return up the hill.

Mandatory prison sentences sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford will send Congress proposed legislation mandating prison sentences for violent federal offenders, although he concedes that most violent crimes are beyond the reach of federal law enforcers.

Proposals for mandatory sentences and for a $7.6-million program to compensate crime victims were major features of Ford's crime message sent to the House and Senate on Thursday. White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said draft legislation to carry out those proposals will be sent to Congress by Wednesday.

Ford's message stirred little immediate reaction in Congress, partly because many of the proposals already are contained in pending legislation to revise the federal criminal code.

But Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif.,

chairman of the judiciary subcommittee on constitutional rights, called the Ford plan "a rebash of old ideas, many of which are widely criticized as potentially ineffective."

Referring to the mandatory sentencing proposal, Tunney said Ford's plan "offers mechanical solutions to problems that don't lend themselves to simplistic answers."

Sen. Roman L. Hruska, ranking Republican on the Judiciary Committee, said the President "has identified the crucial areas that need reform and he has proposed workable, practical solutions."

These are major features of the administration program, drafted largely by the Justice Department:

—Automatic, though relatively short, prison terms for adults convicted of skyjacking, kidnapping, narcotics trafficking, or using a dangerous weapon in committing other federal crimes, and for repeat offenders. A judge could waive a prison sentence for a defendant who was "mentally impaired," acting under "substantial duress" or only peripherally involved in the crime.

—Payments as high as $50,000 to injured victims of federal crimes for losses not compensated by insurance, by similar state programs, or by other means. The money would come from fines paid by federal offenders and from 20 per cent of the profits of the Federal Prison Industries.

—Modest changes in federal gun control laws. Ford would ban the manufacture, assembly and sale of cheap handguns known as Saturday night specials, tighten the licensing requirements for gun dealers, and establish a waiting period between the purchase of a gun and delivery to the buyer. Ford said he is "unalterably opposed" to federal registration of guns or gun owners.

—Extend the life of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration through 1981, increase its authorized spending level from $1.25 billion to $1.3 billion annually, and earmark the extra $50 million a year for crime-fighting programs in cities.

Home buyers entitled to closing cost info

WASHINGTON (AP) — Beginning today, home buyers will be entitled to advance notice and an explanation of the murky "closing costs" which can add thousands of dollars to the price of purchasing a home.

But paring those costs will still be up to the buyer.

Pipeline costs have increased

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Projected costs for the transAlaska pipeline have risen by nearly a half-billion dollars to $6.37 billion, the consortium building the pipeline has announced.

In a news release Thursday, the Alyeska Pipeline Service Co. said the eight major oil companies building the 798-mile pipeline from Prudhoe Bay to the Valdez terminal on Alaska's southern coast adopted the new price control estimate after a review of costs up to April 30 of this year.

"It should be recognized that it is difficult to project the ultimate cost of the pipeline project at this time for a number of reasons," said Alyeska, which left the door open for future upward revisions.

The reasons cited were abnormal weather, unauthorized work stoppages, availability of specific construction permits and unexpected on-site redesign due to updated geological information.

Only last October, Alyeska raised the total cost estimate to nearly $6 billion from $5 billion. After the 1969 Prudhoe Bay oil strike, planners envisioned a $900 million pipeline.

Watergate figure devotes self to Christian work

NEW YORK (AP) — Another Watergate figure has turned to specifically Christian work. It's a familiar symptom. The moral issues raised in the case have triggered turns to religion among several of those involved.

In fact, it was the impact of church services that purportedly sparked the initial break in the case.

It has caused a lot of reassessments of motives and values among the participants, says former White House aide Jeb Stuart Magruder, who this week took a job in a nationwide Christian youth program.

"I'm sure many of them are reviewing their goals," he said in an interview.

Some of the participants have asserted new Christian commitments, including former White House plumber Egil "Bud" Krogh and one-time White House adviser Charles W. "Chuck" Colson, both of whom served prison time for Watergate involvements.

John Ehrlichman, chief domestic adviser to resigned President Nixon and also convicted in the Watergate coverup, says he now wants to work for "the well-being of others."

Watergate break-in expert James McCord, who served four months in prison, said it was a sermon series in suburban Washington's Fourth Presbyterian Church by its pastor, the Rev. Richard Halverson, that led him to write the 1973 letter to Federal Judge John Sirica that first blew the lid on the case.

Magruder, who spent seven months in prison for his part in the affair, is becoming a vice president of Young Life, an organization working among unchurched teen-agers to bring them to Christian convictions and standards.

Magruder, 40, a United Presbyterian, said he and his family always have been active in church, but that as a result of Watergate, his dedication to Christianity "is stronger."

Anyone who has been through a "crisis stage" such as Watergate inevitably reassesses his philosophy and objectives, he said, adding that in his own case, it was not simply Watergate and prison but his whole life experience.

Young Life, the organization he will serve as vice president in fields of administration and communication, has headquarters in Colorado Springs, Colo. It is non-denominational and runs about 1,000 weekly youth clubs meeting weekly in 300 cities.

Magruder, asked if the sins of Watergate helped qualify a man for Christian service, said:

"The basic view of Christianity is that every man is a sinner. But prison wasn't a seminary. It was a lot of things, but not a seminary." Yet the pangs of it, he added, have stirred a zeal for reform, there and elsewhere.

Zaire hampers rescue try

DAR-ES-SALAAM, Tanzania (AP) — A joint American-Dutch effort to contact guerrillas holding three students hostage in the jungles of eastern Zaire is being hampered by Zaire security measures, a well-informed source said Friday.

The source, involved in the contact operation, said Zaire troops are stopping the normal flow of people into the area controlled by the Popular Revolution Party (PRP) of the Congo.

PRP guerrillas have been holding Carrie Jane Hunter of Atherton, Calif.; Kenneth S. Smith of Garden Grove, Calif.; and Emilie Bergman of the Netherlands for more than a month. Another student, Barbara Smuts of Ann Arbor, Mich., was released a short time after their capture in order to carry back the guerrillas' ransom demands, which the Tanzanian government has rejected.

Electronic glasses aid deaf

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Electronic eyeglasses to help the deaf hear are being developed by a team of Ohio State University scientists.

Spoken sounds are being converted into light signals and vibrations to augment lip-reading, said Dr. Herman R. Wood, director of the school's Biomedical Engineering Research Center.

"Certain kinds of sounds create particular patterns of light and particular patterns of vibrations," said Dr. Richard M. Campbell, assistant professor of electrical engineering.

The electronic eyeglasses will help distinguish types of sound that a lip-reader can't normally see, he said.

Weed and Campbell are coordinating the project. Weed said it needs another year of development and clinical evaluation. They plan to experiment with deaf students this fall.

Heart of the eyeglass system will be a microcomputer which translates sounds into visual and vibrational patterns. The miniature digital processor weighs from one to three pounds and is about the size of a pocket calculator. It will be hooked to the glasses by wires. The present experimental eyeglasses are hooked to a larger computer.

The processor will pick up sounds, converting some into vibrations on the inside of the eyeglass shafts and using others to activate eight small lights around the rims of the lens.

Weed said the glasses will enable deaf persons to keep track of speed, rhythm, pronunciation, loudness and inflection of their own speech, as well as others.

Weed said the glasses would be useful because the average lip-reader can pick up about 30 to 50 per cent of what is said, while exceptional readers may understand 90 to 95 per cent.

With the new glasses, the researchers are hopeful the deaf will be able on average to understand 70 to 80

U.S. productivity advances have been disappointing

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — A nation or a company's degree of productivity depends upon how wisely and effectively it uses its raw materials, capital, technology, energy, labor — all its resources — in obtaining production.

In the United States, productivity advances have been disappointing of late.

Output per man-hour in the total private economy fell 2.7 per cent last year and the first quarter increase this year was 1 per cent. From 1966 through 1974 the rise has been 1.9 per cent a year, far below the longterm trend.

Whatever the reason, this slowing has caused alarm in government, management and labor circles.

"There is a general feeling of concern about the past eight years," says a member of the National Commission on Productivity and Work Quality. One area of concern is an insufficiency of capital investment.

Capital investment — in new plants and equipment — averaged 14.9 per cent of total U.S. output from 1960 through 1973. But, the commission points out, it averaged 28.9 per cent in Japan, 20.6 in France, 22.2 in Germany.

These percentages demonstrate that other nations are spending more for technological change, to mechanize and, therefore, to improve productivity. Capital investment generally means modern, efficient production.

For example, when the United States was founded two centuries ago it required a day's hand labor with a shovel to cut a ditch 20 inches wide, 4 feet deep and 20 feet long.

The Ames Co., which made shovels then and still does, consulted a local contractor near its Parkersburg, W. Va., plant and asked him how long it would take him to dig a similar ditch through similar material. "One minute," he replied.

The explanation: The contractor owned a wheel trencher that contained 32,000 pounds of technology and which represented a capital investment of around $40,000.

The productivity commission observes also that the United States is cutting back on the amount of research and development that goes into the productive effort, especially since less emphasis is being placed on the space effort.

In 1965, it notes, research and development as a percentage of the Gross National Product was 2.8 per cent. In 1974 it was 2.3 per cent.

In most other industrial nations, including the Soviet Union, the percentages are rising. While these figures are raw and say little about quality, they do suggest the United States is slipping in its quest for better ways to produce.

In output per man-hour, which is probably the most popular way of expressing productivity, U.S. manufacturers had one of the smallest average gains for the years 1970 through 1974 — 4.8 per cent.

By comparison, Japan achieved a 9.5 per cent gain, France 6, Germany 5.7, Italy 8.3. Of all the major industrial powers, only the United Kingdom, with its old plants and equipment and some bad work habits, averaged less.

Various reasons have been put for the relative decline: concentration of industrial power, labor restraints, over-regulation at all levels of government, insufficient motivation, too much competition for capital. But few conclusive answers are available.

Is the situation permanent? Many knowledgeable critics fear it could become so if the reasons aren't uncovered and action taken against them.

Toledo pilot dies in crash

GAYLORD, Mich. (AP) — An Ohio National Guard F-100 fighter jet crashed Thursday near Big Bear Lake about 10 miles southeast of Gaylord, killing its Toledo pilot, authorities said.

State Police at the Gaylord post said they recovered the body of William Mann, 25, the craft's only occupant.

National Guard officials in Ohio said the plane was part of the 180th Tactical Fighter Group based in Toledo and Mann was getting in some extra flight time.

Guard officials said the plane was accompanied by another fighter on a training flight. The other plane was not downed or damaged, officials said.

No cause was given for the fatal crash, the second in recent weeks for the 180th, but a witness said the two planes appeared to be practicing rolls.

The group's commander, Col.

Charles Bell, was killed three weeks ago when his F-100 went off the runway at Toledo Express Airport. His copilot remains in serious condition in a Toledo hospital.

Revitalized GOP is Reagan goal

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Former California Gov. Ronald Reagan says he is "one voice trying to revitalize the Republican party." He told a $100 a plate fund raising dinner in Indianapolis Thursday that the GOP needs a "slam-bang" open national convention next year to show the people it's still alive.

Reagan, 64, said he would decide by the end of this year if he would challenge President Ford for the 1976 nomination.

Opinion And Comment

A woman keynoter

It is good to learn that steps have been taken to repair the harm done by a notable case of bureaucratic insensitivity in Washington. As a result, a woman rather than a man will serve as chief United States spokesman at the worldwide International Women's Year conference in Mexico City.

The original announcement was that President Ford had chosen Daniel Parker, head of the Agency for International Development, to deliver the keynote speech for the American delegation. Parker is a capable and experienced man - but a man, as women's groups and others sensitive to women's aspirations for equal rights and opportunity were quick to point out.

In response to protest, Parker's status has been changed; he will serve as co-chairman of the U.S. delegation along with Patricia Hutar, who is our country's representative on the United Nations' Status of Women Commission. Moreover, Hutar will make the keynote address.

This is a more appropriate division of responsibility. Just why a man was designated as chief spokesman in the first place has not been satisfactorily explained. But one can hope that in the future officials will have the sense to realize that, for reasons both politic and substantive, women must be given their share of leadership roles. That goes double when, as at Mexico City, the focus is primarily on women's problems.

A WORD EDGEWISE. . .By John P. Roche

Hardly a love affair

Probably it is an accidental by-product of jet travel, but recent American Presidents have in my judgment spent far too much time wandering around the world establishing "warm personal relationships" with other heads of state. The same goes in spades for our Secretaries of State. The unarticulated premise of these peregrinations is that the diplomatic universe is patterned on a Rotary Club. Objectively there is a curious resemblance to the "cult of personality" in the communist world.

The pattern ancestor of our Rotary Club approach to diplomacy (and I should say that nothing herein is designed to insult Rotary Clubs; the point is that the world is not made up of amiable Rotarians) was of course, Woodrow Wilson, who set forth after the Armistice to straighten out the wicked old world. Wilson went to Versailles convinced that the noble character of his principles and his personal virtues as the charismatic incarnation of democracy would overcome all barriers to world peace.

His major problem, however, was that neither British Prime Minister David Lloyd George nor French Premier Georges Clemenceau accepted Wilson's position in the Calendar of Saints. Frustrated time and again, Wilson finally attempted to go over the heads of the official representatives at the Peace Negotiations to the people of the world. To make a long story short, the people let him down, and he returned to the United States essentially a broken man.

To some this experience would be classified as a "failure of communication," but the hard facts were that Lloyd George and Clemenceau understood exactly what Wilson was trying to communicate and thought it was contrary to their national interests to respond favorably. To use a contemporary case of the same sort, does anybody think that the differences between Israel and the Arabs are founded on a "failure of communications"? They are founded on extremely hard-nosed appraisals of respective interests. Which leads to the supplementary query: How can the personal diplomacy of Secretary of State Kissinger influence the state of the play? Is Premier Yitzhak Rabin going to stand up in the Knesset and say, "Look fellows, this guy Kissinger is a straight arrow. I trust him, so let's give Egypt the passes and the oil field"?

Which brings us to President Ford's recent and future travels. What was accomplished (or can be accomplished) on the road that could not equally well be dealt with in Washington? Doubtless the amenities were served when the NATO leaders got a chance to discover what a decent guy the President is, but I suspect they were more impressed by Congress' passage of the massive Defense appropriation than by the Commander-in-Chief's assurances that we are still tough. This they could have read in the newspapers.

As far as the future is concerned Peking's attitude towards the United States did not arise from any fondness for Henry Kissinger or Richard Nixon; it was based on a shrewd calculation of Chinese national interest. Thus the thought that a tough old communist like Chou En-lai (known in the 1920s as the "butcher of Shanghai") is going to revise Peking's policy unless he likes Jerry Ford is simply preposterous. If President and Mrs. Ford want to see the sights in China and take a trip to the Great Wall, fine and dandy — but such a safari has no policy implications.

I don't mean to pick on President Ford; I just hope he has more sense than some of his predecessors. Lord knows, my late boss Lyndon Johnson was a classic sinner. He would get a funny look in his eye, and we would head home to pack, wondering whether we were off for a weekend in Guam (ugh!), a visit to what seemed like 15 Central American capitals in about 8 hours, or merely a trip around the world. I can only recall one trip that accomplished anything: We went to Konrad Adenauer's funeral and he did get buried.

In short, let us repudiate the cult of personality, send the Secretary of State over to Foggy Bottom and handcuff him to his desk, and conduct diplomacy by the boring old routine of Ambassadors, telephones, cables and some recognition that, as the 19th century maxim put it, "Nations do not have friends; they have interests." Diplomacy is not a love affair.

"I'M A HOUSE DEMOCRAT AND IT'S THE LAST TIME I SHAKE HANDS WITH FORD."

Wallace could help Glenn become Ohio's favorite son

By ROBERT E. MILLER
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The expected entry of Alabama's Gov. George Wallace into the 1976 Democratic presidential scramble may help U.S. Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, decide to become a favorite son candidate.

Glenn said he would announce his decision around the end of June, apparently after Wallace formally makes his plans known.

The fledgling senator's aids insist such a candidacy would not be designed to stop Wallace, but could have that effect.

The aids said Glenn was disturbed by what he considered to be the comically split 1972 Ohio national convention delegation with its fractional voting before national television cameras. They said Glenn wanted the Ohio delegation to be more united in 1976.

As favorite son, Glenn would have the delegation pledged to him on the first ballot.

Stephen J. Kovacic, the former astronaut's chief political adviser, conceded that Glenn, along with many other Democrats, doesn't want to see Wallace come into Ohio and nail down a big bloc of delegates.

Kovacic said he has seen polls that show Wallace would do exceptionally well in Ohio and that the only persons who could defeat him in a primary would be Glenn or Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass. Kennedy has declared himself out of contention. The Glenn adviser recalled that Wallace, as presidential candidate of the American Independent Party in 1968, captured 14 per cent of the state's presidential vote "without even campaigning."

Wallace carried 10 of the 88 counties, almost unheard of for an independent, at least, at that time. An independent won the Maine governorship last year.

Wallace's main strength showed in southwest Ohio, although he also ran strong in some northern industrial areas. Kovacic said he is convinced Wallace plans to campaign in Ohio for 1976.

"He's coming in, he's going to have a committee and money to spend," Kovacic predicted.

Paul Tipps, state Democratic chairman, couldn't be reached, but Pat Leahy, an assistant at party state headquarters, said he had only "heard talk" of a possible stop-Wallace movement.

"I'm sure that if he comes into the state and campaigns he's going to get some votes," Leahy said.

William A. Lavelle of Athens, former state chairman who now sits as a member of the Democratic National Committee, said he knows of no organized move under way to block Wallace's plans in Ohio.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: THE FELLOW WHO BLOWS HIS OWN HORN THE LOUDEST IS PROBABLY IN THE BIGGEST FOG. — AUTHOR UNKNOWN

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Long-distance lovers chaperoned by kids

DEAR ABBY: My parents got divorced when I was 12. I lived with my mother until I went away to college. After graduation, I got a good job and my own apartment. I am now 25.

Dad remarried, but my Mother stayed single. She's attractive and has had many men friends. She gets a generous alimony from Dad.

Now for my problem: I've gone with David for nearly two years. He's 28, and we want to get married. When I told my mother I wanted a church wedding, she said, "Why don't you two run off to Vegas and elope? Under the circumstances, I don't think a church wedding is appropriate." (The circumstances" being that I am not a virgin.) She didn't offer to help me plan a wedding or pay for it.

Abby, I don't expect to walk down the aisle in a white gown and veil, but I want a church wedding to remember, and so does David. With my mother having expressed such a negative attitude, I am on the spot. What should I do?

WANTS A WEDDING

DEAR WANTS: Have the kind of wedding you want. Since your mother obviously has no interest in helping you plan it (or pay for it), invite her as a guest. A church wedding need not be costly to be lovely.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 44-year-old, widow with four children still at home. I've been seeing a 45-year-old widower who has three children who are also living at home. We've talked of marriage, but have no definite plans.

We live 70 miles apart and can see each other only on weekends. Because of time and expense, we stay overnight at each other's homes. We do not sleep together! I feel that we are well chaperoned by our seven children, whose ages range from 7 to 17.

My friend's 17-year-old son said he doesn't think we should spend the night at each other's homes even though HE knows everything is respectable because he's afraid of what the neighbors might say.

I would like your opinion.

DEAR L.: I'd explain to the lad that as long as you know that everything is kosher, and HE knows it, you don't feel that what the neighbors say is worth driving 70 miles home for.

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend whose daughter is having a lavish church wedding and is asking all the women guests to wear long dresses.

Is she correct in making this request?

ANONYMOUS

DEAR ANON: The invitation should state whether the wedding is formal or informal. If it's formal the lady guests should wear long dresses. If it's informal, they have their choice.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope please.

Court rules God cannot own property

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—All is well now with God's Bible School even though the courts have decided God cannot own property in Cincinnati.

The longest running case in Hamilton County Common Pleas will end July 1 when Judge Robert Black will declare the school's alumni the owners.

Litigation began in 1901 when the founder, Martin Wells Knapp, died and left the school to God. The probate court ruled God could not own property in Hamilton County and ownership remained in dispute until 1907 when the common pleas court decided to administer God's Bible School as a public charity.

For the next half century, however, the expanding school ran up debts more than $1 million. A lay administrative board was appointed by the court in 1949 after the Ohio Securities Division frowned on sales of new securities.

Meanwhile, the Mount Auburn section school became famous for serving free Thanksgiving Dinners to the poor of the city, and one one day during the Great Depression served more than 22,000 hungry people.

The dinners were stopped in 1961 during the "dark days" for the school, according to Dr. Samuel E. Deets, who took the presidency in 1965.

Deets traveled the country seeking out alumni and friends, he calls "the Revivalist constituency." He sold more than 15,000 subscriptions to the school's periodical, "God's Revivalist," and raised other funds. He paid off the final $430,000 debt in 1969.

"It's been the biggest challenge I could have had and one of the most rewarding things I could have engaged in," said Deets, a 1959 graduate of the school.

"What we've done is take an old institution that was just about ready to close and we're making it respectable again."

The school has 260 students and 22 faculty members. About half the Proposed DOT budget bill seeks mass transit study

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's transportation department would be required to study modes of transportation other than highways under terms of its separate budget bill, now awaiting a House floor vote.

The House Finance Committee recommended its approval Thursday and with it an amendment by Rep. William L. Mallory, D-23 Cincinnati, to require studies that would include mass transit.

"I'm not against highway travel per se, it was fine for us to do nothing but build roads in the 1950s and 1960s, but we have to get ready for the 80s and 90s," Mallory said.

The bill, separate from the $10.6 billion budget that went to Gov. James A. Rhodes this week, calls for a sharp cut in DOT spending in the two-year fiscal period that starts July 1. Its total is about $731 million, down from $925 million in the current biennium.

Sponsors said the reduction stems primarily from expected declines in gasoline and highway user tax revenues, which, with federal matching funds, comprise the department's income.

Mallory's amendment, approved unanimously, carried an even stronger restriction for departmental operations in the Cincinnati area—halting construction and right-of-way acquisitions on several selected projects.

The amendment mandates department-financed studies of needs and alternatives, and apparently would leave it up to Cincinnati's City Council to say when the work can resume.

Secrecy declines in churches

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Secrecy is a declining practice in the churches. They've become increasingly open about their official discussions, decisions and operations. But just as in government, concealment — and at times deceptions — still occur.

In some cases, there are closed meetings, confidential reports, hidden agendas, unrevealed actions.

Yet the churches, like other public and governmental institutions, represent people, are supported by the people's money and the people consequently are entitled to know what goes on, says Richard N. Ostling, president of the Religion Newswriters Association.

While the churches generally affirm that principle, he writes in a book issued by Harper and Row, "Secrecy in the Church," they sometimes don't live up to it. Take some recent examples: —Roman Catholic bishops, at their annual meeting last fall, acted in closed session on a matter of obvious concern both to church members and the public, but afterward wouldn't reveal it. Reporters queried usually candid friends among them, but they wouldn't tell. Their then president, John Cardinal Krol, of Philadelphia, had admonished them to silence.

Finally, however, through one bishop who believed in leveling with the people on an action involving them, the facts were brought out: A committee had been authorized to raise questions with congressional committees to confirmation of Nelson Rockefeller as vice president because of his pro-abortion stand. Only after newsmen dug it out, through a lone bishop against hiding it, was an action on a clearly public issue officially acknowledged.

—In another case, the interdenominational relief agency supported by most major Protestant and Orthodox churches, Church World Service, recently was involved in a policy controversy over whether it should oppose oppressive governing systems overseas as well as doing direct relief work.

An emergency meeting of its 30-member executive board met to consider the dispute, but reporters were barred and official statements afterward were ambiguous. Only later through individual sources was it determined — on a matter of keen church-member concern — that the agency would stick solely to relief-rehabilitation work and avoid partisan conduct about foreign social systems.

"There is nothing hidden but it must be disclosed ..." Jesus said.

Ostling, the brainy, gentle-mannered religion editor of Time magazine, cites this principle in his coolly documented study and adds: "The Christian church has a special claim to be champion of the truth, and the truth is without value if no one knows it."

Emphasizing that church leaders are "accountable to their members," he observes: "Secrecy is based upon a low opinion of the public and ultimately of the individual man."

Presbyterian congregation attends weekend camp-out

Approximately 80 members of the First Presbyterian Church, ranging from grandparents to infants, are attending the 5th annual church camping trip today thru Sunday at Indian Lake State Park near Bellefontaine.

The Rev. Gerald Wheat, who is leading the tour, said the purpose of the trip is to get acquainted with other members of the congregation, see new parts of the area and learn the history and to worship with other congregations.

Special events planned for the weekend include a campfire, group singing, a tour of Platt Castles, Ohio Caverns, Coupled Olympics, worship service at a congregation in the area, swimming and other activities.

The tour is sponsored by the Youth Council of the church and the Christian Education Council. In 1971 the group traveled to Whitesville, W.Va., in 1972 to Mammoth Cave, Ky., in 1973 to Dearborn, Mich., and in 1974 to Frenchburg, Ky. All participating members furnish their own camper, cook their own meals and do their own sight-seeing.

The number of young people on the trip this year has been reduced, Rev. Wheat said, because members of the church's bell choir will be attending the Bell Choir Festival in St. Augustine, Fla.

Twelve members of the church's choir, under director Mrs. Jack Brennan and accompanied by two chaperones, will leave for the national festival June 25. While at the festival they will be appearing in a solo performance before the 1,000 attenders of the event.

The young women of the local choir have appeared before many clubs and events in Fayette County the past year to assist with funds for making the trip and hope to learn new techniques for future appearances.

Witnesses plan convention trip

John E. Andrews, presiding minister of the Washington C.H. Jehovah's Witnesses congregation, said about 55 delegates will represent Fayette County at a four-day convention July 3-6 in Louisville, Ky.

Andrews said he expected over 17,500 persons nationally to attend the sessions being held in the coliseum of the Kentucky State Fair and Exposition Center to explore problems confronting mankind today and systematically review the ultimate solutions.

"It is clear that the earthly system is a closely-woven fabric," Andrews said. "Whether we like it or not, the nations are all inter-dependent."

He added the reason nations cannot work out problems by cooperation is because they are divided in so many ways. "They have different political ideologies, economic systems, social arrangements and religious beliefs," he said, "resulting in deep-seated prejudices against those who hold views different from their own."

The sessions are scheduled daily from 10 a.m. until 1:30 p.m. and 3 to 5:30 p.m. featuring Bible dramas, lectures and general discussion periods.

Quartet to appear

The Gospel Mariners, a singing male quartet which has gained widespread popularity around the area, will be appearing at the Bloomingsburg United Methodist Church Sunday.

The quartet, featured every Sunday morning on WHIO-TV in Dayton, will present a program at the church beginning at 7:30 p.m. A potluck dinner will precede the service at 6 p.m.

The Rev. Harold J. Messmer, pastor of the church, stated the public is invited to attend.

Senate approves land exchange

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A proposed exchange of land between the state and the City of Mansfield has been approved unanimously by the Senate, virtually completing legislative action.

A bill, by Rep. Sherrod Brown, D-61 Mansfield, calls for the state to give up about 68 acres, now used by the Department of Rehabilitation and Corrections, for use by the city for development of an industrial park.

In return, Mansfield would turn over to the state an estimated 89 acres for use as a flight pattern for the Mansfield Municipal Airport. The bill goes back to the House for consideration of Senate amendments.

The Senate, in other floor action Thursday, approved and sent the House a bill that requires the Department of Administrative Services to provide space in the Ohio Departments Building, a block west of the Statehouse, for use as a state headquarters by statewide veterans' organizations.

Mr. Kenneth Craig was speaker for the Business and Professional Women's Club at their meeting this week held at the Washington Country Club. His topic was "The Past Two Hundred Years in Fayette County," and he said there were three categories of Bi-Centennial participation: Festival, Heritage and Horizons; the enjoyment of the events planned for the celebration-a review of what it means to be an American-and the lasting benefits that are planned for the future. BPW will sponsor a Bi-Centennial Ball in October at Mahan Hall; plans for this will be announced later.

Mr. Craig commended the club for their project to preserve the Willard murals at the Court House. Mrs. Craig was a guest during the evening.

Mrs. Pope presided at the punch bowl preceding the business session.

Rev. and Mrs. Wolford honor guests at anniversary party

Rev. and Mrs. Ralph F. Wolford were honored on the occasion of their 30th wedding anniversary when members of the Jackie Rutter Circle invited friends and members of the First Baptist Church to attend a program and reception.

Mrs. Ralph Yerian played a short program of piano music after which Mrs. Robert Bachelor sang "O Perfect Love" accompanied by Mrs. Yerian at the piano and Mrs. Tom Walker on the accordion.

As Mrs. Paul Brunner, organist played the wedding processional, the wedding party took their places and Rev. and Mrs. Wolford repeated their marriage vows again in a beautiful service administered by Rev. Gerald Wheat. Their daughter, Mrs. Robert Zimmerman, Jr., and their son, Mr. Dennis Wolford were their attendants. Mr. Zimmerman and Mr. Thomas Mossbarger were the ushers. Miss Lori Wolford, another daughter, was at the guest book.

Following the article "I Promise To Love!" read by Mrs. Bachelor, Mr. Charles Stemple read the Love Chapter from the Bible: I Corinthians, 13. Mrs. Bachelor sang two songs which had been sung at the Wolfords' wedding, "I Love You Truly" and "Oh Promise Me," accompanied by Mrs. Yerian.

Mrs. Carl Krieger read a beautiful poem entitled "Matrimony" by Velden Tavis West. Mrs. Yerian's piano solo "To A Wild Rose" by McDowell was followed by acknowledgments by Mrs. Bachelor and the singing by the congregation of the hymn "Saviour, Like a Shepherd Lead Us", a favorite hymn which had also been used thirty years ago.

Mr. Jerry Coleman made the presentation of a cash gift from the congregation which was accepted by Rev. and Mrs. Wolford, who also expressed their thanks and appreciation.

Following prayer by Mr. Stemple, the wedding party and guests left the sanctuary while Mrs. Brunner played the Wedding Recessional.

A lovely reception followed in the lounge and narthex. The refreshment table had a pink cloth, pink tapers and a beautiful arrangement of spring flowers. Mrs. Chester Howell, chairman of the Jackie Rutter Circle, presided at the punch bowl. The small tables in the narthex were centered with bowls of floating roses.

There were also floral arrangements of pink and white in the sanctuary.

Mrs. John Crummy was the reception chairman, and Mrs. Bachelor the program chairman.

Kappa 'fun' cookout

Mrs. Suellen Radabaugh and son, Jonathan, of near Mount Sterling, were hosts at a recent cookout for Alpha Phi Kappa Sorority members and their families.

Guests were Mrs. Jennifer Mathias and son, Eric, Mrs. Linda Wiggers and sons, Tyler and Nathaniel, Mrs. Mary Reed and sons, Ryan and Matthew, Mrs. Dutch Johnson and son, Matthew, Mrs. Kelly Doyle and sons, Bryon and Matthew, Mrs. Karen Bernard and sons, Mike and Brother, Mrs. Sylvia Henry and daughter, Sandy and son, Mike, and special guests Mrs. June Phipps and Jennifer and Gregg of Washington C.H.

The children enjoyed balloon races, ball games and rode the horses while their mothers exchanged college memories.

Guests were from Cincinnati, Dayton, Mount Healthy, Wilmington and Jeffersonville.

'Open house' is planned for golden anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Bennett of Springfield, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary with "open house" from 2 until 5 p.m. June 29 in their home.

Mr. Bennett and the former Lucille Henry were married June 30, 1925, in Jamestown, by the Rev. Frank Gordon.

Twin Oaks Club makes annual tour

Eight members of the Twin Oaks Garden Club left in the rain recently for the annual luncheon and tour. The group motored to Kettering where they toured the Kettering Arts and Crafts Shop. Here several packages were purchased as crafts is one of the hobbies members enjoy.

Mrs. Clarence Stewart joined the members at The Inn for a luncheon. From here they drove to Capps, a three-story high Arts and Crafts shop, where they browsed through the rooms and viewed the many variety of crafts.

On to Beavercreek, they then spent some time in a three-room old-fashioned grocery store. Here they enjoyed homemade ice cream and drove on a backroad back to Xenia. All called the day a "success."

Making the tour were Mrs. Wilbur Hoppes, Mrs. Dana Kellenberger, Mrs. Virgil Garringer, Mrs. James Braun, Mrs. Eugene Thompson, Mrs. Harold Bonecutter, Mrs. Joe Bonham, and Mrs. Willard Bonham.

Mrs. Bonecutter of 711 Sycamore St., will entertain the group for the July meeting.

Rickenbacker open house set Saturday

Parachute exhibitions, sentry dogs and a performance by the USAF Thunderbirds will top the agenda at the Rickenbacker Air Force Base open house Saturday.

Gates will open at 10 a.m. and the day's activities will run until 5 p.m. Throughout the day, there will be static displays of aircraft, exhibits and a continuing model airplane show.

The airfield show will begin at noon with a demonstration by an Army Air National Guard parachute team.

At 12:45 p.m., Rickenbacker's 302d Tactical Airlift Wing of the Air Force Reserve will take to the air. They will demonstrate aerial spray techniques from the C-123 "provider." Then at 1 p.m., the reservists will give a cargo drop demonstration.

Highlight of the day-long open house will unfold at 2 p.m. when the USAF Thunderbirds take to the skies. The aerial precision flying team will be featured in a half-hour program of highly intricate flying maneuvers.

Climaxing the open house, will be a sentry dog demonstration by the men and canines of the base's Security Police Squadron.

The show is free and open to the public.

THE THUNDERBIRDS have the vital mission of demonstrating the professionalism, versatility and flexibility of Air Force personnel and equipment.

Commanded by Major Chris Patterakis of Modesto, Calif., a veteran combat pilot, the Thunderbirds have been credited with creating a greater understanding and appreciation of U.S. Air Force tactical air operations throughout the world.

Recognized by their distinctive red, white and blue aircraft, the Thunderbirds are noted for their precision aerial maneuvers.

Currently, the Thunderbirds fly the Northrop T-38 Talon, a supersonic trainer, which at one time held 12 world records, establishing it as one of the world's best performing aircraft.

The Thunderbird team is composed of 75 men and women working together in over 25 different career fields. In addition to the pilots, Major Patterakis commands three support officers and 65 enlisted people in the fields of operations, information, administration, personnel, photography, supply, training and life support and maintenance.

Net profits drop during quarter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Average net profits for more than 12,000 American corporations dropped nearly one-third during the first quarter of 1975, the Federal Trade Commission reported today.

After-tax profits of manufacturers totaled $9.3 billion, down $4.1 billion from the preceding quarter. Mining company profits fell to $773 million, down $90 million, and wholesale corporation profits were $2.2 billion, down $600 million, the FTC said.

Elsewhere, The Treasury Department planned to announce a campaign to win support for programs to stimulate private investment. It is being launched in the wake of Treasury Secretary William E. Simon's assessment that one major threat to private borrowing — the government's 1976 budget deficit — has at least been partially averted.

He said earlier this week it was a foregone conclusion in January and February that the 1976 deficit would hit $100 billion. But now there is widespread agreement the deficit probably will be in the $60 billion to $70 billion range, mainly because of his arguments to restrain spending, Simon said.

Meanwhile, there were these other economic developments:

—Initial claims for regular state unemployment insurance benefits rose by 83,900 in the week ending June 7 to a total of 443,000, with 46 states reporting increases in first-time claims.

—Personal income of Americans increased in May by the biggest amount in eight months, rising $9.3 billion to an annual rate of $1,211.9 billion after adjustment for seasonal variations. Wages and salaries in private industry during May also rose by the biggest margin since last September, climbing $3.4 billion.

—Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, said another attempt may be made to win congressional approval of a three-cents-a-gallon gasoline tax increase that was rejected by the House last week. He said any such move would require President Ford's backing to succeed.

—American Telephone & Telegraph Co. said second-quarter earnings were up 16.5 per cent to $1.34 a share compared with $1.15 in the first quarter and $1.39 in the second quarter of 1974.

In its report on corporate profits, the FTC said manufacturers' after-tax profits averaged 3.7 cents per dollar of sales, a sharp drop from the average 4.8 cents during the last quarter of 1974 and 5.6 cents in the first quarter a year ago.

Sales by manufacturing corporations fell 11 per cent to $247.7 billion in the first quarter but were 2 per cent higher than a year ago.

Battelle develops cheap method of sulfur removal

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Battelle Memorial Institute announced today its scientists have found a less costly process to remove sulfur from high-sulfur coal that now is used.

Dr. Sherwood L. Fawcett, the research facility's president, said the process would make high-sulfur coal economically competitive and environmentally acceptable.

"Its implications are far reaching for electric utilities, the mining industry, energy consuming industries and ultimately for every consumer who values a wholesome environment and a strong industrial economy," he said. Called the Battelle Hydrothermal Coal Process, Fawcett said it would produce a clean solid fuel by removing almost all pyritic sulfur and up to 70 per cent of organic sulfur in coal.

Until now, Fawcett said, that degree of coal cleanup has required the use of more expensive processes or scrubbers which create problems of reliability, costs and disposal of the waste.

The waste, or effluent, of the process developed by Battelle, he said, can be sold commercially or stored.

The principal inventor is Edgel P. Stambaugh of the research firm's Columbus Laboratories. Fawcett said Battelle has applied for several patents to cover the process.

Stambaugh said the process basically involves heating a water slurry of coal and a chemical filter at moderate temperatures and pressures to selectively convert the sulfur and some of the ash to soluble forms. He said the filter, or leachants, can be reused.

He said the process has been shown to be applicable for converting a wide variety of Eastern and Midwestern high-sulfur coals, such as those in Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia into environmentally acceptable fuels for electric generating plants and industrial boilers.

After investigating many leachants and combinations, the inventor said, a mixture of alkaline compounds was identified as the most suitable for removing the sulfur from coal. After the ground coal goes through the filter, it is heated, placed in a centrifugal filter, dried and comes out as clean coal.

Fawcett said work on the process began in 1969 and was incorporated into Battelle's energy program, established in 1973. Research to date has cost Battelle more than $2 million, he said.

He noted that about 10 per cent of coal reserves east of the Mississippi River can be used directly as a solid fuel because they contain too much sulfur to meet federal and state pollution standards.

"While it is difficult to arrive at anything like precise cost figures at this point," Fawcett said, "our economic studies lead us to believe that the Battelle process can be at least 20 per cent less expensive than any alternate means for producing coal that meets federal emission standards."

Senate OKs appointments

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — J. Gordon Peltier was confirmed by the Senate as director of the Department of Commerce on Thursday by a 17-16 vote that crossed party lines.

Five Democrats joined the chamber's 12 Republicans to approve the controversial appointment by GOP Gov. James A. Rhodes. Majority Leader Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron, voted against the Columbus attorney.

Peltier's appointment was among 14 receiving confirmation. The others were approved without dissent.

They were John Ackerman, health director; Helen W. Evans, industrial relations director; Albert G. Giles, employment services director; Kenneth E. Krouse, workmen's compensation administrator, and William K. Willis, youth commission director.

William E. Blair Jr., Richard C. McConnell, and Charles A. Orwig, all as members of the Technical Advisory Council on Oil and Gas; Paul E. Slade, member, Employment Services Advisory Council; Robert E. Zellar, member, Board of Tax Appeals; Robert S. Malaga, lottery commission director, and Peter Lancione, member, State Medical Board.

Abortions pace births where records kept

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Abortions match or exceed births in areas where records are kept of the legal operations, a spokesman for a Toledo counseling service has testified at a state hearing.

Dr. John F. Hillbran predicted Thursday in testimony before the Ohio Public Health Council hearing that annual abortions could reach 166,000 in Ohio.

Hillbran represented Alternatives to Abortion International which he said has 662 counseling centers in the U.S. and 90 in Ohio.

The Public Health Council, an agency of the Ohio Department of Health, is conducting hearings on rules to deal with abortions that take place after the first 12 weeks of pregnancy.

The proposed regulations to the Ohio Sanitary Code call for counseling and a report to the agency that would not name the woman, but would list extensive personal details about her.

The rules also say that abortions performed after three months must be take place in a hospital.

Hillbran said normal lifesupport equipment should be made available to fetuses that have life signs.

Ottmar Mergenthaler, a Baltimore machinist, invented the keyboard method of typesetting, which revolutionized newspaper publishing.

County Boys State delegates holding variety of offices

ATHENS — More than 1,300 junior boys are participating in the annual Buckeye Boys State program which is currently underway at the Ohio University campus in Athens. Seven of the youths are Fayette County residents.

Fayette County participants include four students from Miami Trace High School and three from Washington Senior High School.

The Miami Trace representatives and their governmental positions during the program are Don Davis, city council member; Scott Gerber, member of the state house of representatives; John Schlichter, executive assistant; Brett Gundlach, city engineer, and Tarkio Chester, member of house of representatives and a private lawyer.

Those from Washington Senior High School are David Thompson, highway patrolman; Mark Stewart, county engineer; and Daniel C. Dean, who is also a highway patrolman.

The program began on Play Day, June 14, with a salute to the nation's bicentennial celebration. Scores of local American Legion posts were represented by uniformed members carrying their flags and banners.

The boys were divided into two political parties and were assigned as citizens of 27 different cities in nine counties. Each was provided with a digest of Ohio government, had access to the law library and were assisted by adult counselors.

Fast-moving political campaigns were followed by the first computerized voting in Boys State history. The 1975 state governor was sworn in by Ohio Supreme Court Chief Justice C. William O'Neill, who himself was a Boys State counselor during the early days of the program.

In addition to a state governor, officials for city, county and other state offices were elected and appointed. There is also a complete range of courts, a state highway patrol and a national guard.

For the first time, a special class in government was held at the university every afternoon during the boys' free time. College credits are awarded for all those who successfully complete the course.

Buckeye Boys State, which was launched in 1936 by the Ohio American Legion department, has for years been the largest of the boys states which are now held in most of the 50 states. It is made possible by local Legion posts in cooperation with high schools. Financial assistance is received from service clubs, civic organizations, businesses and other interested groups.

Rockies rain causes floods

By The Associated Press

Rivers swollen by continuing heavy rains in the northern Rockies kept hundreds of persons from their flooded or threatened homes in northwestern Montana today.

The National Weather Service forecast more showers, rain and thunderstorms from the northern intermountain region through the northern Plains to the upper Great Lakes.

Hardest hit by the flooding was an area on the eastern slopes of the Continental Divide from Glacier National Park south for 100 miles in Montana. Emergency shelters were set up in Great Falls and nearby communities and 75 National Guard troops were called up to aid in evacuations.

Civil Defense officials called for evacuation of up to 400 persons from sections of Great Falls in expectation of crest of 23 to 24 feet on the Sun River. Forecasters indicated a crest equaling one in 1964 when 33 persons died and more than 300 were injured in Montana flooding.

Nineteen persons were stranded in Montana mountain areas late Thursday, including a group of Boy Scouts and their leader.

Huge rock slides were reported in Glacier National Park. A blizzard swept scenic Sun Highway throughout Wednesday, and rocks as large as pickup trucks tumbled onto the roadway from the snow and subsequent rains.

Downpours of rain spilled east into the Dakotas, where Berlin, N.D., was hit by more than 3 inches in two hours Thursday. Two inches fell on Fargo, N.D.

Dr. Schultz conducting economic workshop

MT teachers in economic workshop

"What is Economics All About" has been the theme of a week-long workshop conducted by Dr. Robert Schultz, a professor at Wittenberg University, for teachers in the Miami Trace School District at Bloomingburg Presbyterian Church.

The workshop was made possible by a grant funded by the Ohio Department of Education and approved by the Fayette County Board of Education. The purpose of the grant was to assist teachers of primary age pupils develop economic concepts which could be used in the classroom.

For example, one teacher believes the pupils can understand that needs should be placed before wants and that careful spending, and saving can result in reaching a goal, which is achieved by planning, work and assumed responsibility. In developing these concepts, she plans to develop a game similar to monopoly in which the child plays the role of the family breadwinner, gets a salary for his or her "hard" work, encounters expenses of every day living, and makes choices among general living activities. Many other activities will be developed and will be used next year.

"It has been a privilege to be able to attend this economic workshop. It has given us the opportunity to learn more about modern concepts of economics, refreshed our memories of how man throughout history has gone about making his living, and has made decisions in allocating the productive resources," one teacher commented.

Those attending are Nancy Harper, Mary Foster, Anna Hutchens, Grace Patton, Sue Geisler, Debbie Taylor, Pat Thompson, Lela Campbell, Rose Ann Newbrey, Beverly Eyre, Marie Kelley, Peg James, Helen Woodmansee, Frances Arledge, Helen Miller, Juanita Bryant, Stephanie Krupla, Avonell Zimmerman and Harriett Depugh. June Slaughter coordinated the program.

The participants received certificates from the Ohio Department of Education on Friday.

Captured U.S. planes used by Viets

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. intelligence sources believe the Vietnamese Communists have used captured U.S.-built bombers against Cambodian forces in a growing territorial quarrel between the two recent allies.

Intelligence reports indicate 10 light bombers apparently struck Cambodian forces last week during battles for several small disputed islands in the Gulf of Thailand.

Pentagon officials think the A37 bombers may have been flown by U.S.-trained pilots who served with the South Vietnamese air force until North Vietnam won final victory nearly two months ago.

The North Vietnamese are known to have captured many planes among an estimated $2 billion worth of serviceable U.S.-provided military equipment when they overran South Vietnamese bases in the final stages of the war.

Vietnamese troops which reportedly seized the islands also were said to have been supported by naval gunfire, possibly from vessels once supplied to South Vietnam by the United States.

U.S. intelligence reports indicate the dispute between the neighboring Communist regimes in Indochina has widened into a series of armed clashes along their common border. One report speaks of a recent increase in the frequency and intensity of the skirmishing.

Sources say a Cambodian mission flew from Phnom Penh to Hanoi on June 11 to try to resolve the territorial dispute.

Cambodia's Communist-led peasant army, good enough to defeat troops of the U.S.-backed Lon Nol government, would stand little chance against the heavily armed, highly disciplined North Vietnamese army, in the opinion of army analysts.

According to U.S. estimates, North Vietnamese troops outnumber the Cambodian Khmer Rouge army by more than 225,000 to perhaps 75,000 men.

In another Indochina development, the North Vietnamese 320B division is said to have crossed into southern Laos from South Vietnam.

This, along with Communist Vietnamese seizures of islands from the Cambodians, prompts U.S. intelligence specialists to wonder whether Hanoi intends to try to extend its control into a wider area of Indochina beyond Vietnam's traditional borders.

Work stopped at burial site

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Construction on a $60 million sanitation project near here has been ordered stopped because of protests from the state archaeologist that an ancient Indian burial ground is being destroyed.

Dr. Lathel Duffield says state and federal laws protecting archaeological finds may have been broken at the site. He said five to eight skeletons of prehistoric Indians have been unearthed, but much of the find was shattered by bulldozers and carried off by curiosity seekers.

Duffield said his office never approved any permits for excavation on the site, as required by law, and he doesn't know if an environmental assessment study was ever prepared.

Duffield said evidence indicates the area was occupied by Indians of the Archaic period, roughly 5,000 to 3,000 B.C.

4-H safety speaking winners are selected

Twelve safety-minded 4-H'ers "spoke out" at the annual Fayette County 4-H safety speaking contest held recently in the county extension office.

Winners named by judges Mrs. Gordon McCarty and Mrs. Philip French were David Louis, senior boys division; Doug Johnson, junior boys division; Cheryl Blue, senior girls division, and Susan Kile, junior girls division.

Louis and Miss Blue will represent Fayette County in the Washington C.H. area contest to be held July 9, according to Jack Sommers, Fayette County 4-H Extension agent.

House sets age of legal marriages

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A bill raising the age at which women legally can marry was approved by the House 81-8 on Thursday.

The bill raises the age to 18, the same as present law for a man. Present law allows women to marry at 16.

The bill, sponsored by Sen. David Headley, D-28 Barberton, passed the Senate calling for a uniform age of 16 for both men and women. But Rep. Donna Pope, R-12 Parma, led the House in amending the age upward.

Louis, a member of the We-Dood-It 4-H Club, is the son of Dr. and Mrs. John Louis, 3770 White Road, and Miss Blue is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Marcy, Rt. 1, Mount Sterling, and a member of the Merry Maidens 4-H Club.

Johnson, a member of the Lucky Leaf Livestock Club, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Johnson, Rt. 4, Mount Sterling, while Miss Kile is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Kile, Rt. 3, Sabina, and a member of the A-OK and Buzz'n-Duzz'n 4-H Club.

Safety topics discussed by the 4-H'ers covered a wide area including safety with pets, bicycles, tractors, in the home and on the farm.

Other contestants included Coleen Blue, Teresa Hopson, Bobby Peterson, David Kile, Margaret Peterson, Maurica Milstead, Penny Sears and Bill Schaefer.

Awards for the winners will be presented at the annual awards roundup at the Fayette County Fair Saturday, July 26. Sponsors of the awards are Kirk Furniture Co., Mac Tools, Inc., and the Ohio Grain Co. Also, Mac Tools, Inc. presented each contestant with a 4-H pencil. The winner in the senior boys division will receive a plaque and the winners in the junior boys and girls divisions will receive 4-H jackets.

Traffic Court

Three persons were fined Thursday and Friday in Washington C.H. Municipal Court on traffic charges, including one charge of driving while intoxicated.

Clyde E. Hughes, 34, Dayton, was fined $200 Thursday by Judge Reed M. Winegardner on a DWI charge and was sentenced to three days in jail after he pleaded guilty to the charge. Judge Winegardner also suspended his driver's license for the mandatory 30 days.

Fined Thursday was Sharon L. Osborne, 22, of 819 Lakeview Ave., who pleaded guilty to a charge of reckless operation. Judge Winegardner fined Osborne $50 and ordered her to make restitution for the property damage.

Friday morning, acting Judge John P. Case fined Danny D. Daugherty, 23, Bainbridge, $15 when he pleaded guilty to speeding.

Bond forfeitures:

Betty L. Preston, 28, Staunton-Sugar Grove Road, $25, unassured clear distance ahead; Herbert M. Stolsen-berg, 57, of 1032 E. Temple St., $25, failure to yield the right of way; Pamela K. Smith, 19, of 2596 Ohio 41-N, $25, failure to drive on the right half of the roadway; Kenneth Walters, 56, Jeffersonville, $25 failure to drive on the right half of the roadway; Steven Beverly, 27, Chillicothe, $25, speeding; William L. Bourke Jr., 70, of 207 Wagner Way, $128, disobeyed a traffic light; and David L. Pollard, 24, Jeffersonville, $18, failure to stop for stop sign.

Judge dismisses weapons charge

In only one non-traffic case aired Friday morning by acting Municipal Court Judge John P. Case, a charge of carrying a concealed weapon against a Bainbridge man was dismissed.

Danny D. Daugherty, 23, was arrested June 12 by an Ohio Highway Patrol officer on a charge of speeding and the second charge of carrying a concealed weapon was lodged after a knife was found in his possession.

However, the case was dismissed upon recommendation by both the assistant county prosecuting attorney John Roszmann and defense attorney Ralph Phillips of Greenfield after it was determined the length of the weapon did not constitute a felony charge.

Widowers eligible for full benefits

NEW YORK (AP) — Widowers have the right to the same Social Security benefits as widows, a three-judge federal panel has ruled.

The decision Thursday made as many as 400,000 surviving widowers in the nation eligible for benefits for the first time.

New York adopts 'disheartening' budget

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor Abraham D. Beame and other city leaders have voted to adopt a $12.087-billion budget for New York City.

The vote by Beame and his seven colleagues on the Board of Estimate, the city's budget policy-setting body, came after hours of deliberation at City Hall.

Four minutes before the midnight Thursday deadline, the City Council adopted the spending plan by a 35 to 7 vote.

Calling the budget a "disheartening document," Beame said the plan, which takes effect July 1, "in one cruel stroke" will end the careers of more than 40,000 city employees.

The adopted fiscal plan increases the mayor's originally proposed $11.89-million fiscal document by $150 million in new taxing powers promised by State Senate Majority Leader Warren Anderson and an additional $46 million in state and federal money.

Appeals court begins gag rule hearing

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— U.S. District Court Judge Don J. Young is not expected to be present today when the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals is scheduled to take up his controversial "gag rule" invoked before the start of the Kent State trial, currently underway in Cleveland.

Young's office said he was not expected to be at the hearing requested by CBS Inc., which is protesting the order which prohibits court personnel, plaintiffs, defendants, their relatives and close friends and associates from discussing the case with the news media.

Young, in a brief filed earlier this week, stated he feared the case "would be poisoned by improper publicity" and warned "I shall not hesitate to deal harshly with any party whose actions or comments may jeopardize the finality of the trial."

He was supported in responses by the defendants and plaintiffs, including Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes and former Kent State President Robert I. White.

Young is presiding over a civil suit against 39 present and former Ohio National Guard members, Rhodes, and three ex-state officials. The suit was filed by nine wounded and the parents of four Kent State students killed in a 1970 campus incident.

Noting that he had the inherent power to make proper orders for the control of the processes of his court, Young warned attorneys in the case "that apparently the lessons of the Sheppard case are soon forgotten."

He was referring to the celebrated trial of Cleveland osteopath Sam Sheppard, who was convicted of killing his wife in 1954.

The new taxes agreed to by Anderson and called inadequate by Beame were: —A 10 per cent surcharge on the stock transfer tax to raise $20 million. —Increases of 50 per cent in the tax on savings banks and 75 per cent in the tax on commercial banks to raise $80 million. —An increase in the city's corporate income tax to raise $50 million. There is also in the budget a property tax hike provision which city officials believe will eventually amount to $8.18 per $100 of assessed valuation. The tax is now $7.35 per $100.

In closed-door meetings prior to the budget vote, city agency heads warned Beame that adoption of the budget would mean dismissal of one-sixth of the police force, one-fifth of the fire department, one-seventh of the teachers, an inundation of the city by garbage, and horde of unprosecuted criminals loose in the streets.

College grads face tight job market

CHICAGO (AP) — The estimated 950,000 college graduates of 1975 are facing a much tighter job market than expected, but most will find some kind of work, a national survey predicts.

The report indicated Wednesday that the nation's largest businesses are seeking onethird fewer graduates than they were six months ago.

"A great number of firms seriously underestimated the force of the economic decline," said Frank S. Endicott, retired director of placement at Northwestern University.

For 29 years Endicott has reviewed, usually around the first of the year, the job picture for college graduates. This year, he updated the figures with a second survey in late May and early June.

"I can't remember when there was such a large cutback in so short a period," he said. "By the middle of January, or certainly after the first quarter's earning reports, many companies realized things were worse than expected and they had to cut back on costs. Hiring new graduates was one of those costs."

Endicott said that despite the tough job market, salaries appear to be holding up and there will be work for most of the graduates if they look long enough.

The survey included 110 large businesses, and Endicott said there are indications that the nation's most severe employment cutbacks were among the big firms.

A's stave off title shots

Baseball's World Champion Oakland A's have come up with their own plumbers' unit to sabotage any title aspirations of challengers in the American League West.

"We've won four of five and put Minnesota back a ways," said Oakland Manager Al Dark. "Now we've got to prepare for Kansas City."

The makeshift A's capitalized on strong pitching by Sonny Siebert, Glenn Abbott and Paul Lindblad and some daring baserunning for a 5-2 victory over Minnesota in 10 innings Thursday.

Oakland won the final four games of the five-game set, which left the Twins eight games behind.

"We've got to be thankful we could win this game resting some of our guys," said Dark, who rested Bert Campaneris, Gene Tenace and Billy Williams and used Reggie Jackson as the designated hitter. However, Ted Martinez, Ray Fosse and Angel Mangual filled in capably.

"They all needed a rest for one reason or another," said Dark. "Every series is a big one and we've got one coming up now with Kansas City."

In other American League games Thursday night, the New York Yankees bombed the Detroit Tigers 9-2 and the Texas Rangers whipped the Chicago White Sox 5-3.

Joe Rudi, who also belted his ninth home run of the year to cap Oakland's three-run 10th inning, singled in a first-inning run and Sal Bando drove in the other with a single.

Phil Garner and Washington scored on Jim Hughes' wild pitch in the 10th. Garner was on third base and Washington at first. Washington was running on the pitch and allowed to score when Glenn Borgmann threw wildly into the A's dugout trying to catch Garner.

Yankees 9, Tigers 2
Catfish Hunter retired the first 17 batters and finished with an eight-hitter while Roy White drove in five runs with a homer and a single to lead New York over Detroit.

The Tigers' first baserunner off Hunter, 10-6, was Tom Veryzer, who homered with two out in the sixth. Ron LeFlore later doubled off Hunter in the eighth inning and eventually came around on a grounder for the Tigers' final run.

Reuss 'diets' cards, 5-0

By KEN RAPPOPORT

AP Sports Writer

Jerry Reuss nibbled at the plate with his pitches, giving the St. Louis Cardinals nothing fat to hit.

The starvation diet left the Redbirds with a bad taste in their mouths and just a bunch of eggs on the scoreboard Thursday night.

"I've been able to control my pitches and put the ball pretty much where I want to," the Pittsburgh Pirate pitcher said, explaining his 5-0 shutout over the Cardinals and other recent successes.

"I've just been consistent, and consistency is the most important ingredient in pitching."

Reuss' six-hitter, his second shutout over the Cardinals this season and his eighth victory, is a bitter pill for St. Louis to swallow. Only a couple of nights ago, Cardinal pitcher Lynn McGlothen branded the Pirate staff as "mediocre."

But Jim Rooker answered that charge Wednesday night with a six-hitter and Reuss delivered another high, hard one at the Cardinals with his beauty Thursday night.

Coupled with the New York Mets' 3-2 defeat by Montreal in 13 innings, the Pirates improved their lead in the National League East to 3½ games.

Elsewhere in the NL, the Los Angeles Dodgers beat the San Diego Padres 4-1 and the Philadelphia Phillies whipped the Chicago Cubs 6-3 in 11 innings.

Tom Grieve's two-run double sparked a five-run seventh inning that carried Texas over Chicago. Chicago left-hander Claude Osteen carried a 3-0 lead into the seventh, but quickly surrendered a single to Leo Cardenas and a walk to Jim Sundberg. Cesar Tovar then singled through the left side to score Cardenas with the Rangers' first run.

Rich Gossage replaced Osteen and Toby Harrah greeted him with a run-scoring single. Gossage struck out pinch-hitter Jim Spencer but Grieve lined a shot into the right field corner to score Tovar and Harrah. After Mike Hargrove was intentionally walked, Lenny Randle singled home Grieve with the final run of the inning.

While Reuss was doing his thing on the mound, Bill Robinson, Willie Stargell and Dave Parker blasted home runs for all the Pirate scoring. Robinson struck a solo homer in the first inning to give the Pirates a 1-0 lead. Then he singled in the fourth before Stargell unloaded one into the right field seats.

In the sixth, John Curtis had Stargell struck out, but the ball got away from catcher Ted Simmons and Willie was safe at first. One out later, Parker lined a Curtis fastball over the right field wall.

Expos 3, Mets 2
Gary Carter's infield single drove home the winning run in the 13th inning to lead Montreal's victory over New York. Pitcher Dale Murray began the Montreal rally with a walk on four pitches from Rick Baldwin and was sacrificed to second. After an intentional walk to Mike Jorgensen, Tony Scott singled to load the bases and set the stage for Carter's dramatic hit.

Dodgers 4, Padres 1
Ron Cey and Steve Yeager singled home runs to break a scoreless tie in the sixth inning Doug Rau won his first game in a month as Los Angeles beat San Diego.

Phillies 6, Cubs 3
Johnny Oates and Ollie Brown hit run-scoring doubles in the 14th inning, keying a three-run outburst that carried Philadelphia past Chicago.

Two Carrolls take Gullett's place for Cincinnati Reds

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds begin a six-game road trip starting at Houston tonight with two Carrolls on the pitching staff filling in for injured Don Gullett.

Veteran reliever Clay Carroll, 35, and always eager, is scheduled to pitch against the Astros, faced by Doug Koniczky.

"It's a heck of a compliment to come out of the bullpen," said Clay Carroll, who needs just 17 more innings to set a club record for the most innings pitched.

Perez pushes Garvey for All-Star slot

NEW YORK (AP) — In the first five years of fan balloting to decide the starting lineups for baseball's All-Star game, only one position has had a new leader each year — the National League's first base.

Steve Garvey of Los Angeles is hoping to break that string, although the second weekly National league voter tabulations released by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's office Friday shows Cincinnati's Tony Perez is a strong challenger.

Garvey was a write-in starter last year and went on to win the Commissioner's Award as the Most Valuable Player. He had a lead of more than 54,000 votes in the initial week of balloting this year, but Perez, who has played in five All-Star games, is now only 5,963 votes behind. Garvey has 431,344 votes to 425,381 for Perez.

Cincinnati catcher Johnny Bench, second baseman Joe Morgan and shortstop Dave Concepcion have sizeable leads, while third baseman Ron Cey of Los Angeles has a comfortable margin.

Pete Rose of Cincinnati continues to set the pace in the outfield and New York Mets Del Unser and Rusty Staub have a lead for the other two positions. But Staub is being pressed by Jimmy Wynn of Los Angeles and St. Louis Cardinals Reggie Smith and Lou Brock.

Bench is the top vote-getter with 857,469.

Manager "Sparky" (Anderson) knows I want the ball all the time and he knows I'll never say no to him," Carroll added, slipping into Gullett's spot in the rotation.

Gullett has been placed on the disabled list for 21 days with a cracked bone in his thumb.

Tom Carroll was called up from Indianapolis to replace Gullett on the roster and said he now holds no hard feelings. Carroll resented being sent back down to the minors after spring training and at first refused to go.

Anderson said he had no hard feelings following the dispute with the 22-year-old righthander, but, "If it was me, I'd have hard feelings. It's the way it's supposed to be. You should be mad when you're sent to the minor leagues."

"It was tough," said Tom Carroll. "It's been harder to get up for every game. For a long while it bothered me and it was hurting my pitching. Finally, before my last time out, I said the hell with it. I'm gonna bury it and pitch." His record was 4-5 at Indianapolis of the American Association.

The western division leading Reds of the National League play three games at the Astrodome then move on to Atlanta for the final three games of the trip.

The Reds defeated the Indianapolis Indians 5-2 in an exhibition game there Thursday night before leaving for Houston.

The decision to sent up Carroll rather than Pat Zachry, who is 4-1, was made by Indianapolis Manager Vern Rapp, according to Anderson.

"They only asked me if I wanted a starter or a reliever," said Anderson. "I haven't seen either of them pitch lately so I can't make the decision."

Spot starts are not new to Clay Carroll, looking toward the 484 inning record.

"I have the ability to start or relieve," he said. "The Lord gave me a sound arm. As a starter I can use all my pitches and pace myself better."

"Atlanta wasn't using me," he recalled prior to the 1968 trade that brought him to Cincinnati. "They said they were going to make a starter out of me. But that was just an excuse. I finally told them I wanted to be traded."

Carroll's earned run average currently is 2.31 and has a 5-4 record.

Peterson cuts pitching hand

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians said pitcher Fritz Peterson cut his pitching hand in a tractor accident Thursday while working in his yard at home.

A Tribe spokesman said several stitches were taken in the back of Peterson's left hand.

The spokesman said the injury was not considered serious, but the south-paw hurler is expected to be out of action for at least a few days.

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures
If price is a consideration — which it is with most of us — the rule of thumb to remember in the purchase of lumber is to select the kind which is most suitable for the purpose.

It is poor economy to choose the cheapest wood when it will not do the job. It is equally poor economy to buy wood of superior quality when one of a lower grade will be suitable.

The first-time buyer of lumber is surprised to discover that the sizes aren't exactly as stated. The dealer isn't trying to cheat you. A 2 by 4, for example, is 2 by 4 before surfacing and seasoning operations to put it into proper condition for you to use. When you buy it, it's 1½ by 3½. A 1 by 6 is ¾ by 5½ inches. The dimensions are called nominal before the surfacing and seasoning. Thus, when you see that the nominal dimensions of a piece of lumber are 2 by 4, you know they will be a little less when you buy it. The exception to this is when board measure is used for lumber with a nominal thickness less than one inch. Multiply the width in feet by the length in feet. The resulting footage is the same as if the material were assumed to be one inch thick. For instance, lumber ½ inch by 12 inches by 12 feet would be considered to contain 12 board feet.

Remember that we are talking about lumber, not about manufactured products, such as plywood, wallboard or insulation board, even when the item is made entirely of wood, such as plywood. These products are usually sold by the square foot or panel, with the thickness of the material specified.

Most lumber yards employ people who can help you make a proper selection if you tell them what the wood is to be for. When you find an establishment or individual who is willing to assist you, guard it or him carefully. Over the years, you'll save considerable money with proper advice.

Seventy five per cent of lumber production is from softwoods, but the percentage of softwood lumber purchased by the do-it-yourselfer is probably even higher. Softwoods include cedar, cypress, Douglas fir, white fir, hemlock, larch, redwood, spruce and various kinds of pine. Hardwoods include alder, ash, basswood, beech, birch, cherry, gum, hickory, maple, oak, poplar and walnut. Most of the time the softwoods are softer and thus easier to work than hardwoods, but there are some exceptions. The term softwood really applies to wood that comes from coniferous or needle-bearing trees. The hardwoods come from broadleaved trees, such as the maples, oaks and those previously mentioned.

Classifications for lumber are numerous and, at first, inclined to be confusing. But after you purchase lumber a few times — and talk about your selections with that helpful dealer referred to earlier in this article — you will find yourself learning quickly.

(Do-it-yourselfers will get invaluable information from Andy Lang's handbook, "Practical Home Repairs," available by sending $1 to this newspaper at Box 5, Teaneck, N.J. 07666).

'FIRST' RAIN IS SLIPPERY

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — When it first starts to rain after a long dry spell, driver beware, warns tiremaker Goodyear.

The company's new Motor Sports Club says that in dry weather an oil film builds up on the highway, and when it first starts to rain there's a mixture of oil and water on the road that is as slippery as ice.

The club says that if it rains really hard for 20 minutes or so, the oil will wash away, but until then roads are dangerous and speeds should be reduced, thus avoiding sharp braking and turning.

Reputed Chicago crime syndicate leader slain

OAK PARK, Ill. (AP) — Sam Giancana, a reputed leader in the Chicago crime syndicate who was recently linked to alleged CIA plots to kill Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro, was found shot to death in his home Thursday night, police said.

Giancana, 65, had been shot once in the right corner of the mouth and five times in the neck, according to Oak Park Police Chief Wilbur Reichert.

No weapon was recovered, but six .22-caliber shell casings were found on the floor, Reichert said.

"It seems like a professional hit, but the small caliber of the gun bothers us," he said. Gangland slayings often are committed with shotguns or large-caliber weapons.

About $1,400 in cash was found on the body, Reichert said, leading authorities to discount robbery as a motive for the shooting.

Caretaker Joseph DiPersio, 82, discovered the body lying face up on the kitchen floor in the basement of Giancana's home in this western Chicago suburb, Reichert said.

DiPersio and his wife had been watching television in a second floor room of the house, but they said they heard no gunshots, possibly because their air conditioner was running, the police chief said.

DiPersio said he saw Giancana alive at 10:30 p.m., but the next time he checked the reputed mobster was dead. Police received the homicide call at 11:51 p.m.

The FBI joined local police in investigating the shooting.

Giancana, a dapper, outgoing figure in earlier years with a bent for silk suits and night clubs, was arrested in connection with a number of gangland killings in the late 1950s and early 1960s, but was never convicted.

Cooler, less humid air moved into northeastern Ohio Thursday night, bringing some relief from high temperatures. Elsewhere, temperatures remained in the 70s.

That relief was forecast to last through today, although readings in the south and west were expected to rise into the mid 80s. Only minimal relief from scattered thundershowers was forecast.

Thundershowers persisted in southeastern Ohio overnight, ending shortly after midnight elsewhere.

A ridge of high pressure extends from central Canada through the Great Lakes to the Gulf of Mexico. The ridge is bisected by a weak cold front from south of New England through northern Ohio to northern Illinois and beyond.
